European Digital UniverCity

Your world just got bigger.

With the European Digital UniverCity (EDUC), you as a student, teacher or researcher are part of a single strategic alliance among Western, Central, Northern and Southern Europe which enables you to explore the opportunities and benefits of not one but eight universities at once.

Meet the alliance

EDUC is an alliance of eight universities that decided to cooperate to bring together their respective knowledge and resources and create an integrated European university.

But what does that mean?

Using modern digital tools and face-to-face collaboration, we form a strong triangle of shared knowledge and academic values between Western, Central, Northern, and Southern Europe, developing strong ties between local environments to tackle the global challenges of the 21st century.

Eight universities are building a single strategic alliance

The members of the EDUC Alliance are eight universities located in seven European countries, each of them sharing its unique culture, insights, knowledge, and resources with the others.

The universities are

- University of Potsdam (Germany)
- University of Rennes (France)
- University Paris Nanterre (France)
- University of Cagliari (Italy)
- Masaryk University (Czech Republic)
- Jaume I University (Spain)
- University of South-Eastern Norway (Norway)
- University of Pécs (Hungary)

Together, the EDUC partners have around

200 000 students

17 500 teaching and research staff

13 500 non-academic staff

of the EDUC Alliance

- making European higher education more competitive
- internationalization and development of the EDUC concept
- building up a modular, flexible management system
- coordination and harmonization of the training structures
- building up a new online EDUC campus
- development of virtual and physical mobility education
- integration of the languages and cultures of the seven countries into each other's curricula
- building up the EDUC community

Opportunities offered by EDUC Alliance

For teachers:

- EDUC Academy – digital course development opportunity, e-learning platform (Moodle) with systematic professional consultation
- professional partnership building and development
- participation in thematic seminars
- language training and courses
- good practices training

For students:

- scholarships within virtual and physical mobility: Short Intensive Mobility Programs, Gap Year Scholarship
- skills development and professional partnership building
- participation in the EDUC student community
- participation in thematic seminars
- EDUCARDS – European Student Card
- language training and courses

For non-academic staff:

- physical and virtual mobility training, courses
- language courses
- good practices training

All of this and more is possible when eight universities work as one.
